

QUINTON LI EDITORIAL

Contact info

Quinton Li

quinton@quintonli.com

+61 416 198 629

Cosy young adult fantasy novel TELL ME HOW IT ENDS releases April, portraying a tale of healing, spirituality and friendship

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

12 March 2023

Melbourne, VIC – Quinton Li is proud to announce their debut work, Tell Me How It Ends, releasing in eBook and paperback on April 9, 2023.

Tell Me How It Ends is a whimsical narrative filled with tarot card readings, magic and diverse representation. Focused on found family and healing, and set in a world where queer labels and pronouns upon introduction are natural, this book would be a fit for those looking for a homey, mystical read later this year.

The novel follows Iris Galacia, a sheltered lesbian tarot reader with anxiety and autism, who is called to adventure by Marin Boudreau, an aromantic asexual non-binary thief with ADHD, on a rescue mission. As they set off, Iris learns about friendship, a life away from family expectations and herself.

SJ Whitby, author of Cute Mutants, says, “A delightfully warm story of magic, mayhem, and self discovery, populated by a cast of charming characters who’ll steal your heart (among other things).”

Tell Me How It Ends is 346 pages in paperback and now available for pre-order on Amazon and www.quintonli.com.

For more information or to arrange an interview, please contact Quinton Li.

About the author

Quinton Li (they/them/theirs) is a Melbourne-based non-binary novelist, poet and fiction editor. With a love for fortune-telling, angelic beings and the human condition, it's no wonder that many of their works across fiction and poetry touch on these subjects. Alongside these themes, they strongly resonate with queer and Asian diaspora works and believe that art can change a perspective or enhance it.

Their debut novel, TELL ME HOW IT ENDS, is a cosy coming-of-age fantasy novel with a queer & diverse cast, tarot cards and witches. Their poetry can be found with Panorame Press, Messy Misfits Club and Iris Youth Magazine. Find more at www.quintonli.com